Ana Paula Martins have been actively involved in the design conduction of Drug Utilization Studies among the Portuguese population. The main therapeutic areas of interest are AINEs, Anti-depressantes, Hipoglycemia agents, vaccines, drugs for osteoporosis, Among the main achievements in the field of rational drug use were finding related with non compliance with therapies and lack of guidelines following, drug related risks that can be avoidable.

Another area of interest is the study and test of new methodologies for collecting information in field studies than can guaranty drug exposure reliable measurements. Risk management and benefit risk ratio of new chemical entities (NCEs) are domains of actual and future work, mainly in geriatrics. Compliance and oncology are the areas where she is conducting research work for now.

Most Relevant Publications:

