Living and dying in Portugal: reflections on ‘superaging’ and the quality of life ..................................................... 7

Rural abandonment and landscape evolution in the Central Region of Portugal ................................................. 17

Immigration in Portugal at the Beginning of the 21st century – Changes and Challenges ............................... 33

Daily Mobilities ................................................................................................................................................. 51

The Iberian Peninsula as a marginal territory. A reading after the book “A Jangada de Pedra” (by José Saramago) ......................... 69

Conservation, Development and the Environment: A Conflictual Relationship or a Different View For New Geographies? .................. 83

The consumer society in the communities of a semi-peripheral country: Portugal ............................................. 99

New logics of development in the countryside. A case study in Central Portugal – the example of the Serra da Lousã .......................... 115

Portugal’s Mountain Regions. Challenges For The 21st Century ................................................... 131